

God is Water

When I look into your eyes there's a face I can't recognize though it looks like me.

When I look into your soul
There's a peace I need to know and then I walk away

When I look into your mind there's a depth I dive inside
I lose myself this way.

When I look into your soul
there's a love I long to know please just let me stay.

Everytime I need to see who's on my side
I look around, you're the only one I find

God is Water, life is pain
Drink it up and rise again
There's one truth that seems to be
That we'll fight until our backs
Against the sea

Till our backs against the sea

When I look into the sky It's only then that I realize
I could fly away
When I finally start to see
(the) strength and power inside me please just let me breathe

When I wander on my own the light and dark places I've roamed
I knew that you were there But wherever I may go you're the only one I know who always stays the same

Everytime I need to see who's on my side
I look around, you're the only one I find

God is Water, life is pain
Drink it up and rise again
There's one truth that seems to be
That we'll fight until our backs
Against the sea

Till our backs against the sea

God is Water, life is pain
God is Water, life is pain
God is Water, life is pain
God is Water.
